

Our Benevolent Government at Work

Description

The Information Age certainly has its advantages for the private business sector, but, as I blogged before, the Government seems to find ways to shall we say "leverage" advances in technology before there is law to regulate some things - call it a fallout of unintended consequences.

I admit, it's an exceptionally fine balance between safety of the people and the ability to experience freedom, as intended, by our Founding Fathers.

Anyhow, I just found Space Daily yesterday, and then when scanning the infosphere this morning, I found this article.

Just stash it in your memory banks for another time.

Category

1. Political
2. Technology

Date Created

October 26, 2005

Author

default watermark