

An artist retires in order to make portraits for fallen military members

Description

Once more, a daily read of Black Five yields a story worth passing along:

Artist retires so he can make portraits of fallen military members

There's just something special about people who will listen to the leading of God and do something so very compassionate. Please follow the link to Matt's site and then follow the links to the Stryker Brigade's stories of this man at work.

My prior post about Captain Greenawalt, a Vietnam Vet who will do memorial photo collages, is here.

I urge you to pass this information around to the families you know who have sacrificed their loved ones.

Category

1. Uncategorized

Date Created

January 9, 2005

Author

default watermark