Iâ€™m FALLLLING!

Description

This post is will be â€œthe one that started itâ€• for me. Iâ€™ve been reading blogs for about 6 months now and have decided to join the ranks of the pajamahadeen. More on the logic behind that to come with time, but it has at itâ€™s core the desire to let the main stream media (herinafter referered to as â€œMSMâ€•) and their blind supporters know there are plenty of thinking, knowledgeable people out here, who did not choose to wear a press pass for their chosen career. Not all of these people had to go through a higher education institution to get their smarts, either.

â€œTheyâ€• employ â€œexpertsâ€• all the time, and, while Iâ€™m thinking of it, they actually pay them for their commentary. Look at all the talking heads they had who used to wear a uniform for the Gulf War and the War on Terror? In the land of the cyber-expert, it seems plenty of people did some tremendously detailed research, all free of charge for the MSM, and their idea of â€œthanksâ€• was to tell the world that people who sit at home and type in their pajamas canâ€™t be taken seriously.

If I had the free money, Iâ€™d sure pay plenty for some not-photshopped pictures of the major luminaries of the press corps typing at home on their laptopsâ€¦in their PJs!

Comments?

I feel like Iâ€™m running out the back of a Super Casa at 15,000 ft. Iâ€™m now falling into the cyber-atmosphere, but I packed a â€˜chute, it will be OKâ€¦.
