The Cause of Excessive High School Pregnancy Rates

Description

Ohio High School Has 64 Pregnant Students

Hereâ€™s the money quote from the article:

> â€œExperts, parents and students themselves struggle to explain why such pockets of high teen pregancy rates appear. Are teens getting appropriate sex education? Do they have access to birth control and are they using it consistently? Has the stigma of unwed motherhood lost its edge?â€•

I was going to, in the spirit of the times, blame this on Global WarmingÃ‚Â®. The high pregnancy rate must be a result of President Bush not signing the Kyoto Treaty. Everything else isâ€¦

Then I got thinkingâ€¦.I think itâ€™s events like this, that despite the Kyoto Treaty provisions, are exactly what cause Global WarmingÃ‚Â®. What a dilemna we now face. There is no accounting for the destructive effect of excessive body heat generated by teens with nothing to do besides to practice (and sometimes succeed) at getting pregnant.

On top of wringing our hands over that, we need to raise the flag now about who is to blame for the damage to the Gulf Coast. These teenagers shouldnâ€™t be allowed to escape the consequences of their actions that caused the two Category 5 storms!

We must now consider whether we will try to amend the Kyoto Treaty, or is we need to have a major worldwide conference, say in like Amsterdam. At least there, the residents would be open to the discussionsâ€¦.

Just a thoughtâ€¦
