The Reason Women Choose Islam from Seed Magazine

Description

Idle reading night a few days ago brought this to me. I was reading Seed, a new periodical I just noticed, for the article â€œThe Harsh Light of Science.â€• The premise is the ansgt of both the scientists and the religious leaders having a serious scientific study of religion, but I digress.

This quote on page 54 (Feb/Mar 2006 issue) jumped right out at meâ€•

> â€œFor instance, eating disorders, such as anorexia nervosa and bulemia are much less common among women from Muslim countries in which the physical attrativeness of women plays a muted role, relative to that in Westernized countries.â€•

default watermark

There you have it. Itâ€™s the evil western world destroying women again.
Thanks to Little Green Footballs for the Open Thread!

Category

1. History

Date Created
March 3, 2006
Author