Semi-Live Blogging from DC MilBlogging Conference â€“ Part I

Description

Iâ€™m checked in after a long drive and three family visits enroute, and will be heading to Franâ€™s Restaurant tonight for the pre-MilBlogging Conference join up, but more importantly, to shake a few hands and say a few words of thanks to our service personnel, while trying not to interupt their free steak dinner.

LCDR and Mrs Smash will be here, and I think one other tagged with being a navy type in the list of attendees. Iâ€™m looking forward to getting to know some of the people I have read much of over the last two years.

I was hoping Capt Lex would make an excuse to make a cross country, butâ€¦heâ€™s busy, I guess, becoming an systems engineerâ€¦

default watermark

If youâ€™re not already briefed in on the furor over Franâ€™s lease not being renewed, go here, read and chase the links. Hilton boned this one up (even the MSM is writing negative things!). Fran is also looking to set up a fund to keep the dinners for the wounded personnel from Walter Reed going. If you have a few spare $$$, that may be a good place to drop them.

More later!

Category

1. Blogging
2. History
3. Military
4. Supporting the Troops

Date Created
April 21, 2006
Author
admin