National Geographic: Iraq War Medicine Article

Description

I picked up the trial to finding this article from a post on Black Five. Matt referenced Joey Bozik, and linked to one picture on the NG website.

Up on the NG site, there are stills and a video with narration of the what writer Neil Shea saw in country, and also followed back home, to the VA and into the homes of those recovering from their wounds.

Itâ€™s an insight into the development of care and also the dedication to all of those in the chain providing medical care, and certainly a discussion of the spirit of those wounded and what they are dealing with as well. While the actual pictures used are black and white, some are graphic in natureâ€¦thereâ€™s your warning before you click.

Iraq War Medicine in 5 parts.

The final video piece, â€œPushing Forwardâ€• talks about how Sgt Joey Bozik has pushed ahead with his life. Neilâ€™s final statement about this issue is â€œThese people are stronger than most people I have met in my life.â€• Quite a complimentâ€¦
