Injured USS FRANK CABLE (AS-40) Sailors Will Get Valour-IT Laptops

Description

I missed the news of the steam line on the USS FRANK CABLE (AS-40) rupturing and burning 8 sailors this past weekend, but I just received an email forwarded by Soldierâ€™s Angels from LTC (Ret) Jim Riley:

> From: Riley, James D CONT BAMC-Ft Sam Houston TX <
> James.Riley@cen.amedd.army.mil>
> Date: Dec 5, 2006 1:36 PM
> Subject:
> To: Soldiers Angels
>
> Patti
>
> I canâ€™t get post or even read most of the BLOGS at work. I thought you might like to update BLACKFIVE on the sailors injured in the boiler explosion. Here is what I would like to say if youâ€™d like to send it to them
>
> Just wanted you to know Soldiersâ€™ Angels is on the ground in San Antonio and in an protective overwatch position & I am personally looking out for the injured sailors and their families. We will support them in any way we can as their treatment progresses. The families have arrived and are being tended by the staff and chaplains.
>
> Thanks to Blackfive and the other MIL Bloggers, Soldiersâ€™ Angels will be providing a new laptop for each of these six heroes as soon as they get out of the ICUs and we hope they will be blogging their story themselves very soon. Our prayers are with them and their families.
>
> Jim (LTC, Med Svc Corps, ret), Director, Medical Spt Ops Soldierâ€™s Angels

default watermark

Bubblehead is on the story.

For all who chipped either effort or money or both at the fund drive for Valour-IT, this is the result of your dedication to supporting our troops and, in this case, the sailors in particular.

For anyone else late to the game, Valour-IT donations are accepted year roundâ€¦. (hint, hint!)

Category

1. Charities
2. History
3. Military
4. Navy
5. Supporting the Troops

6. Technology
7. Valour-IT

Date Created
December 5, 2006
Author
admin

default watermark