Wanted: Water Carriers for Today and for ValOUR-IT 2007

Description

Itâ€™s too early to cal to employ one for today, so Iâ€™ll draft one: SteelJaw Scribe.

I know I can count on him for excellent posts about the aviation world, the naval aspects in particular. Today he goes back to more details of â€œodditiesâ€• of carrier aviation, covering more details about B-25 Mitchells flying on (we know well of them flying offâ€¦) carriers, and more feasibility testing conducted with that airframe, which, while seemingly a non-issue, was actually an in road to the world of jets aboard CVs.

(Thanks, SJS!)

In the meantime, I am working on The.Next.Big.Thing. Also, itâ€™s this time again.

Do you have your PayPal buttons close at hand? Youâ€™re gonna be needing them. Plans for such overpowering success as Team Navy enjoyed last year are in the works. If anyone knows a Marine/Marine related blogger who wants to get their feet wet (but we know thatâ€™s what Marines do best) making an assault this coming campaign, tell them to â€œSTEP UP, MARINE!â€• and send their muster report. The Marine Blogger of 2006 ValOUR-IT fame, Villaineous Company hung up her keyboard a few weeks ago. In other words, the Marines in our midst are currently â€œheadless.â€• What they should go looking for is one of those â€œstrategic corporalsâ€• they have created with their world renowned training regimen and combat experience. If you know anyone interested, get them in touch with me (in comments or via email) and Iâ€™ll hook them up with the volunteer selector.
