Ropeyarn Sunday â€œSea Storiesâ€• and Open Trackbacks

Description

Ropeyarn was canceled today, but Open Trackbacks arenâ€™t!

A â€œsea storyâ€• of sorts:

Sorta like when the 1st plane flew into the WTC, the reaction was one of â€œOMG! How horrible!â€• It took a second, then third for us to know it wasnâ€™t a major coincidence.

First one, then two, now four submarine cables have been cut that provide internet and associated data services to the Middle East.

Itâ€™s not like there havenâ€™t been storms in the area of the Suez Canal before, with ships dragging anchor. Worth keeping track ofâ€¦

Update: Bonus! Iâ€™m ripping Taco Bell, the kilt wearing Gyrene, off for a sea story (yes, Marines are part of the Navy). He has a great one up about a dummied up letter to the editor of Stars and Stripes, while serving on an island full of Marines back in 1994. Itâ€™s a hoot!
