Breakfast and History?

Description

How better to begin a day, than to be invited to a long standing group os mostly Naval Aviators, and some Marines, who span military history from 1942 to the mid-90s (I was the youngest oneâ€¦and moved that goal post)?

Via business networking and meeting and doing business with told me to show up for breakfast. I didnâ€™t get al the names right, Iâ€™m sure, but a Navy Cross winner, a retired Admiral who wnet â€œdowntown.â€• The man with the most CUTLASS traps every. A P-3 pilot who was one of my COâ€™s roommates at USNA, andâ€¦we had met at the change of command, and figured out he and I had crossed paths in Dec 76 @ Comm School in Newport. And thatâ€™s not all the history I sat in the middle of, but, I was the lone â€œShoe,â€• and non-USNA. They still welcomed me in and told me to come backâ€¦They do this every two weeks.

default watermark

More later. Much more Iâ€™m sureâ€¦.maybe an interview from a Cutlass pilotâ€¦.

Category

1. "Sea Stories"
2. Blogging
3. Marines
4. Military
5. Military History
6. Navy

Tags

1. History
2. Military History
3. naval history
4. saturday morning breakfast history

Date Created
August 29, 2009
Author
admin